Facts About Pancreatic Cancer

Pancreatic cancer is among the top 5 causes of cancer-related deaths among Hispanics.

Pancreatic cancer is relatively rare. It is usually diagnosed late because the symptoms are similar to many other illnesses.

Factors that increase your risk:

- Smoking, chronic pancreatitis, obesity
- Diabetes, family history of pancreatic cancer

There is no test for pancreatic cancer. If you are at risk know the symptoms:

- Loss of appetite, unexplained weight loss
- Nausea, yellow eyes and skin
- Stomach or back pain, fatigue, depression
- Dark-colored urine, light colored stool

If you have one or more risk factors and are experiencing any of these symptoms, talk to your healthcare provider. To find a healthcare provider in your area or to receive more information call (866) 783-2645. If you call you will also receive a free reusable shopping bag.
